MEMBERSHIP PRIVACY POLICY

The Tri-Valley Stargazers Astronomy Club (TVS) is committed to protecting the privacy of its members. This document describes what personal information we collect from our members and how we use and safeguard this information.

What information we collect from members

TVS collects and retains the following contact information when a member joins the club or renews their membership:

- First and last name
- Email address
- Mailing address
- Phone number

TVS also collects and retains the following additional information from members participating in the Del Valle observing site program:

- Emergency contact phone number

TVS does not collect or retain any financial information about its members, such as checking or credit card account numbers. TVS also does not collect or retain any computer information about its members or website visitors, such as IP addresses, operating systems used, or browser types.

How we use members' information

TVS uses personal information from its members solely to conduct the activities of the club. This primarily involves communication within the club, such as emailing meeting notifications, club event invitations, observatory access information, and renewal reminders. In addition, the following club benefits involve sharing member information with third parties:

- TVS membership also includes membership in the Astronomical League, which entitles TVS members to participate in the league's observing programs and receive their quarterly magazine, the Reflector. To enroll TVS club members in the Astronomical League, TVS periodically provides the Astronomical League with each TVS member's name, email address, mailing address, and phone number. TVS instructs the Astronomical League to exclude their members from any advertising conducted through the league.
- TVS has an agreement with the East Bay Regional Park District to allow club members to use the Del Valle Regional Park for observing. For those club members participating in this program, TVS is required to provide EBRPD with each member's name and emergency contact phone number.

Information shared with third parties then becomes subject to the privacy policies of those parties.

How we maintain and protect members' information

The TVS Treasurer maintains an electronic roster of the club members and their contact information. This roster is available only to the club officers and to club volunteers with a need to contact other club members for the purposes of conducting club business.

We do not share contact information with the membership at large. However, club members have the option of communicating with other club members by subscribing to the club's Groups.io group. Once subscribed, members may decide whether or not to make their Groups.io profile, which includes their email address, visible to other subscribed club members. In addition, any posts made by a member to the Groups.io group share the member's email address with all other subscribed club members.

We only share members' personal information with the third parties mentioned above as required for the normal operation of the club. We never sell members' personal information.
